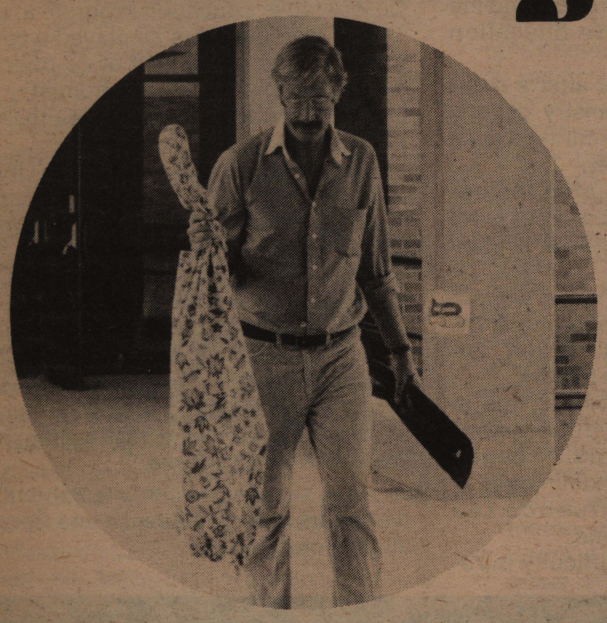
the Ring



Volume 4, Number 17, September 15, 1978

University of Victoria

"Statistically, the probability of any one of us being here is so small that you'd think the mere fact of existing would keep us all in a contented dazzlement of surprise."

—Lewis Thomas, The Lives of a Cell: Notes of a Biology Watcher, 1974

Education enrolment nosedives

Registrations up from last year

UVic administrators breathed a sigh of relief at the end of registration week, Sept. 8.

Undergraduate enrolment is up by 156 students from the same time in 1977, the first increase since 1975.

Registrar Gordon Smiley says three-quarters of this increase is accounted for by first-year students. "It's good to have an increase in first year since this builds an increase into succeeding years," he explains.

There are 6,734 students registered in undergraduate courses this year, compared to 6,578 students enrolled at the same time last year.

Part-time students make up 148 of the increase of 156 students. "The shift from full-time to part-time (fewer than 12 units) has been going on for several years," says Smiley.

This year there are 1,677 part-time students enrolled, 5,057 full-time students. In 1977 there were 1,529 part-time students and 5,049 full-time students.

Another statistic reveals that students are leaving the Faculty of Education.

The Faculty of Education has 169 fewer full-time students than at this time in 1977. "I don't think this is surprising with all the publicity about the closing of schools and the difficulties encountered by those attempting to find teaching positions," says Smiley.

"Many of those leaving Education appear to be returning to Arts and Science. The Faculty of Arts and Science has increases in every category, with 290 more students enrolled than last year.

The Faculty of Human and Social Development and the Faculty of Law have about the same enrolment as last year while the Faculty of Fine Arts has an increase of 20 in enrolment students.

UVic's figures which show a 2.3 per cent increase from last year contradict Canada Statistics figures which predicted that enrolment in B.C. universities and colleges would be down by one per cent.

Smiley is cautiously optimistic that UVic's enrolment figures will increase further when late registrations and enrolment in off-campus courses are added. Counter-balancing these enrolments will be withdrawals from the university.

"We've added many off-campus courses this year and we have a lot of enquiries about these courses in Nanaimo, Nelson and other locations," says Smiley. "I'm hoping off-campus enrolment shows a good increase from last year."

Faculty vote simmers on BOG back burner

The Board of Governors at its Sept. 18 meeting is expected to again tackle the question of whether faculty members should be permitted to vote on a candidate for president of UVic.

A debate on procedures for selecting a president was the main subject of the July meeting of the BOG.

BOG chairman Joseph Cunliffe presented to the meeting selection procedures which did not recommend a faculty vote. President Dr. Howard Petch spoke strongly in favor of having a faculty vote written into the procedures.

After a long debate, the BOG approved Cunliffe's proposals but added a proviso that Petch bring a clause about a ratification vote, to the September meeting.

The issue of procedures for selecting a president has been simmering at the BOG level for more than two years.

At the July meeting Cunliffe said a faculty vote on the BOG's choice could be "time-consuming and messy procedure".

The procedures brought by Cunliffe to the meeting stressed the importance of faculty involvement through membership on the search committee and interviews with candidates.

He made the presentation on behalf of the BOG executive committee which took over the task of developing procedures to select UVic's presidents last March, after procedures developed by a special committee appointed by Petch were repeatedly turned down at the BOG level.

In his presentation, Cunliffe emphasized the responsibility of the BOG for selecting a president.

"The procedures by which the president is selected are agreed upon between the Board and Senate, but the actual selection of the president is clearly the responsibility of the Board of Governors.

"In fact, the selection and support of the president are probably the most basic and important actions the Board will take and should not be side-stepped or delegated."

Cunliffe said the Board should develop as accurate perception as possible of the feelings and aspirations of the academic community. He said a selection committee should be drawn from as wide cross section of university life as possible.

The recommendations propose the search committee, with the BOG chairman, be advisory to the board. Cunliffe, suggested a 17-member committee including three BOG members, the chancellor, one Alma Mater Society nominee, one Graduate Students' Society nominee, one Faculty Association nominee, one faculty members from the Faculty of Arts and Science, four faculty members from faculties other than Arts and Science and Graduate Studies and two members of Senate.

Petch, whose term as president expires at the end of 1979, made the recommendation that a vote by all full-time faculty members be added before the BOG made an offer to a candidate.

"The president, more than anything else, needs the support of faculty," said Petch. "The vote would really be a ratification, a safety valve in a way, once the choice has been made. It would be more of a vote of confidence in the committee, not an election in that sense. It would be a ballot of whether you do or do not support the choice of the Board."

Petch said the vote was "very important for internal candidates." "The president must have the support of faculty. If he doesn't get it, there's no way he can do his job."

He said if he were to consider a second term and if the BOG were to consider him for a second term, "I wouldn't even consider it unless I knew I had the support of faculty."

Bill opens centre

Premier Bill Bennett is coming to campus Sept. 28 to officially open University Centre in a ceremony in the Auditorium. Opening ceremonies will include a special Convocation at which internationally acclaimed Canadian contralto Maureen Forrester will perform. She and two Victoria men, Robin Wood, principal of the Victoria Conservatory of Music and Colin Graham, Director Emeritus of the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria, will receive honorary degrees. And there will be a concert for students in the evening. For details and pictures, see pages 4 and 5.

Reeves: he'll be missed

Co-op loses driving force

A memorial fund has been set up to establish an award for students in the Chemistry Co-operative Education Program, in honor of John Reeves, administrative officer of the chemistry department and a driving force behind the formation of a Co-operative Education Program at UVic.

Reeves, 56, died Aug. 11 after a short illness. He joined the chemistry department in August, 1969. after retiring from a distinguished military career.

Immediately prior to joining the department he was chief of the Personnel Branch with the rank of Major at Unified Forces H.Q. in Ottawa.

During his career at UVic, he worked with four chairmen of the department; Dr. Stephen Ryce, Dr. Alfred Fischer, Dr. Graham Branton and Dr. A.D. Kirk.

"John played an outstanding role in the development of the department during its formative years," recalls Branton. "He established administrative systems which will influence the department for years to come."

"We will have extreme difficulty in replacing John," says department chairman Kirk. "His role in this department and in the university generally was such an important one."

He was one of the originators of the Co-operative Education Program at UVic. "In the last few years he played a central role in the establishment of co-operative education programs in chemistry and other departments," says Dr. Keith Dixon (Chemistry).

Contributions payable to the University of Victoria, J.F. Reeves Memorial Fund, can be sent to the Development Office, University of Victoria, 3815 Haro Road, Victoria, B.C. (V8P 5C3) Contributions are tax deductible.

Reeves was born in Victoria and received his elementary and high school education here. He enlisted in the Militia in Victoria in 1938 and was commissioned as an artillery officer in 1941 on transfer to the active service force.

He is survived by his wife Patricia and daughters Nancy, Rebecca and Barbara, all of Victoria.

gazette

The Board of Governors reports the following actions taken on June 29, 1978.

Promotions

The following faculty members were promoted to the rank of professor, effective July 1, 1978:

Faculty of Arts and Science: William H. Alkire, Department of Anthropology; Fred I. Cooperstock, Department of Physics; F. David A. Hartwick, Department of Physics; J. Douglas Porteous, Department of Geography; Herbert F. Smith, Department of English.

Faculty of Education: Edward E. Owen, Division of Social and Natural Sciences.

Faculty of Fine Arts: John Dobereiner, Department of Visual Arts.

The following faculty members were promoted to the rank of associate Professor, effective July 1, 1978:

Faculty of Arts and Science: Kenneth L. Avio, Department of Economics; Howard L. Biddulph, Department of Political Science; James T. Buckley, Department of Biochemistry and Microbiology; Anthony S.G. Edwards, Department of English; Donald J. Miller, Department of Mathematics; Victor A. Neufeldt, Department of English; Richard L. Ogmundson, Department of Sociology; Miles Paul, Department of Biology; John A. Schofield, Department of Economics; H. Paul Smith, Department of Mathematics; Nelson C. Smith, Department of English; Frank J. Spellacy, Department of Psychology; Trevor L. Williams, Department of English.

Faculty of Education: Ian L. Bradley, Division of Art and Music; Geoffrey S. Hodder, Division of Art and Music; John J. Jackson, Division of Physical Education; Peter Shostak, Division of Art and Music.

Faculty of Fine Arts: Erich P. Schwandt, Department of Music; George W. Tiessen, Department of Visual Arts.

The following faculty members were promoted to the rank of assistant Professor, effective July 1, 1978:

Faculty of Fine Arts: John A. Celona, Department of Music; Jesse A. Read, Department of Music.

Special Appointments

Antonio Fama, assistant professor, Department of Hispanic and Italian Studies, appointed acting chairman, Department of Hispanic and Italian Studies, effective July 1, 1978 to August 31, 1978;

Ronald A. Hoppe, associate professor, Department of Psychology, appointed assistant chairman, Department of Psychology, effective July 1, 1978 to June 30, 1979;

Richard B. May, associate professor, Department of Psychology, appointed faculty advisor, Arts and Science Advising Centre, for August, 1978;

R. Anne McLaughlin, assistant professor, Faculty of Education, appointed Coordinator, Education Advising Centre, effective July 1, 1978 to June 30, 1979;

Michael Parris, B.Sc., M.A., D.Phil. (Oxford Univ.), Ottawa, Ontario, appointed visiting scholar, Department of Chemistry, effective August 15, 1978 to August 15, 1979;

William M. Ross, assistant professor, Department of Geography, appointed faculty advisor, Arts and Science Advising Centre, for July, 1978;

Janet Senior, assistant to the director, Summer Session, appointed acting director, Summer Session, effective July 1, 1978 to August 31, 1978;

Jan Walls, associate professor and director, Pacific Studies Program, appointed director, Centre for Oriental Studies, effective July 1, 1978 to June 30, 1981;

Henry J. Warkentyne, associate professor and chairman, Department of Linguistics, appointed acting chairman, Department of Anthropology, effective July 1, 1978 to June 30, 1980.

Change of Date, New Appointment — Faculty

Jane A. Abramson: effective date of appointment as professor, School of Social Work, changed from July 1, 1978 to Jan. 1, 1979.

Cancellations, New Appointments — Faculty

Michael J. Padilla: appointment approved by the Board of Governors April 17, 1978, as assistant professor, Division of Social and Natural Sciences, Faculty of Education, cancelled.

Steven J. Schwager: appointment approved by the Board of Governors May 15, 1978, as sessional lecturer, Department of Mathematics, cancelled.

New Appointments — Faculty

Eli W. Mandel, B.A., M.A. (Univ. of Sask.), Ph.D. (Univ. of Toronto), Toronto, Ontario, appointed visiting professor, Department of English, effective July 1, 1979 to June 30, 1980;

Louis D. Ranger, B.Mus. (Juilliard), New York, N.Y., appointed assistant professor, Department of Music, effective July 1, 1978 to June 30, 1980;

Frank Ruskey, B.A., M.A., Ph.D. (Univ. of Calif. - San Diego), San Diego, California, appointed assistant professor, Department of Mathematics, effective July 1, 1978 to June 30, 1980;

P. Richard Stanley-Baker, B.A. (Oxford Univ.), M.F.A. (Princeton Univ.), Victoria, B.C. appointed assistant professor, Department of History in Art, effective July 1, 1978 to June 30, 1980;

Douglas A. Steane, B.A. (Univ. of Western Ontario), M.A. (Carleton Univ.), Medicine Hat, Alberta, appointed sessional lecturer, Division of Psychological Foundations, Faculty of Education, effective July 1, 1978 to June 30, 1979;

David R. Stronck, A.B. (St. Patrick's College - California), M.S., Ph.D. (Oregon State Univ.), Pullman, Washington, appointed associate professor, Division of Social and Natural Sciences, Faculty of Education, effective July 1, 1978 to June 30, 1981;

David R. Zussman, B.S. (McGill Univ.), M.Sc. (Florida State Univ.), Ph.D. (McGill Univ.), Ottawa, Ontario, appointed assistant professor, School of Public Sdministration, effective July 1, 1978 to June 30, 1980.

Reappointments — Faculty

Edward A. Dunlop, B.A. (Queen's Univ.), M.Ed. (Univ. of Toronto), Victoria, B.C., reappointed sessional lecturer, Child Care Programme, effective July 1, 1978 to June 30, 1979;

William H. Dyson, B.Sc. (Moravian College), M.A., Ph.D. (University of Kansas), M.D. (McMaster Univ.), Victoria, B.C., reappointed assistant professor (part-time), School of Nursing, effective July 1, 1978 to June 30, 1979;

Mary L. Richmond, B.N. (McGill Univ.), M.A. (Columbia Univ.), Victoria, B.C., reappointed sessional lecturer, School of Nursing, effective July 1, 1978 to June 30, 1979.

Leave of Absence — Faculty

George O. Mackie, professor, Department of Biology, granted leave of absence, without pay, for the period Sept. 1, 1978 to Dec. 31, 1978.

Resignation — Faculty

Boyde Hood, associate professor, Department of Music, effective April 30, 1978.

New Appointment — Administrative and Academic Professional

Martin T. Milner, B.Sc. (Univ. of Victoria), Victoria, B.C., appointed programmer, Department of Academic Systems, effective July 1, 1978, for the usual probationary period.

Leave of Absence — Administrative and Academic Professional

Michael P. Motek, programmer, Administrative Systems, granted leave of absence, without pay, for the period Feb. 1, 1979 to Feb. 28, 1979.

Award of Tender

Contract for construction of new visual arts building, in the amount of $398,867, awarded to Dura Construction Ltd;

Contract for construction of 105-car extension to Parking Lot 1, in the amount of $79,884.70, awarded to Victoria Paving Co. Ltd.

The Board of Governors reports the following actions taken on July 27, 1978.

Resignations

The following resignations were accepted:

Steven Louie, programmer, administrative systems, effective July 14, 1978.

Penny Rollins, coordinator, intramural and recreational athletics, Athletics and Recreational Services, effective August 31, 1978.

Wendell F. Rylander, senior analyst, Institutional Analysis, effective August 31, 1978.

Honorary Appointments

Arthur T. Bergerud, B.Sc., M.Sc., Ph.D., Fulford Harbor, B.C., reappointed honorary associate professor, Department of Biology, effective July 1, 1978 to June 30, 1978.

Harriet McCurdy Blanchard, B.Sc., M.Sc., Ph.D., Victoria, B.C., reappointed honorary research associate, Department of Biology, effective July 1, 1978 to June 30, 1979.

Ralph Owen Brinkhurst, B.Sc., Ph.D., D.Sc., Sidney, B.C., reappointed honorary professor, Department of Biology, effective July 1, 1978 to June 30, 1979.

Special Appointment

Frances A.S. Ricks, sessional lecturer, Child Care Program, appointed acting director, Child Care Program effective July 1, 1978 to June 30, 1979.

New Appointment — Faculty

Kathleen Ruth Miller, B.S.N. (UBC), M.S.N. (Yale Univ.), Victoria, B.C., appointed assistant professor, School of Nursing, effective Sept. 1, 1978 to June 30, 1980.

The Ring is published every Friday during Winter Session. Deadline for events to be included in the Calendar is the Friday prior to publication. Letters to the editor will be published if signed and without libellous content. Letters are subject to editing to meet space requirements. Material contained in The Ring can be reprinted or broadcast freely without permission. Credit is not necessary but would be appreciated.

Publisher: Information Services
Manager: Lynne MacFarlane
P.O. Box 1700, Victoria, B.C. V8W 2Y2
Telephone (604) 477-6911, Ext. 4779, 4780
International Standard Serial Number
ISSN 0318-8419
Editor: John Driscoll
Associate Editor: Donna Danylchuk
Calendar: Margaret Salmon
Graphics: Bob Bierman
Contributor: Penny Freno-Link
Typesetting through Media and Technical Services, University of Victoria Printing: E.W. Bickle Ltd., Courtenay, B.C.

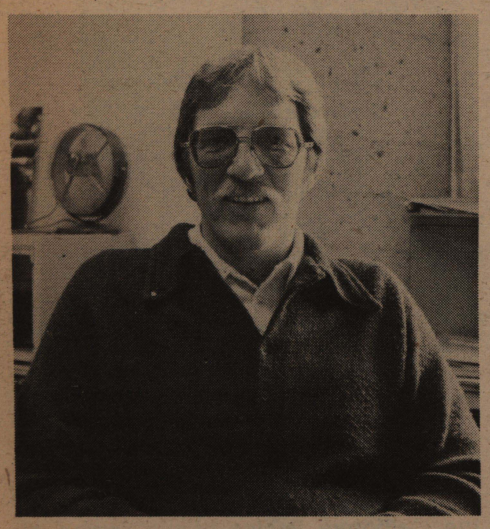
ringers

Four faculty members from Law were in Halifax in late August to take part in the annual meeting of the Canadian Bar Association. Dean Murray Fraser was part of a panel of judges and law teachers discussing "The Judiciary and the Law Schools", which was part of the "Conference of Canadian Judges" which took place in conjunction with the C.B.A. meetings. In addition, Dean Fraser chaired a panel on "Patients' Rights" at the Bar meeting; Donovan Waters presented a paper to an all-day session of the Trusts section and Frank Borowicz and Richard Brown participated in the Administrative and Labour Law Sections of the five day meeting.



Wayne Pealo is the new co-ordinator of intramural and recreational athletics at UVic. He replaces Penny Rollins who has gone to Lakehead University to study for her MA degree.

The Canadian Association of University Teachers took a grim look at the future at its annual meeting this summer in Ottawa. Among statements adopted was a policy statement on financial crises in Canada's universities. CAUT called on all faculty associations to negotiate legally binding contractual terms to deal with lay-offs owing to a financial crisis. Terms should include a fact-finding commission, jointly nominated by the faculty association and the Board of Governors, with complete access to all financial records to find out whether the alleged financial crisis is bona fide and, if so, the extent of the problem. The CAUT statement declares that if the crisis is genuine and is likely to last longer than a year, universities may chose a variety of methods of lay-off including seniority and academic need. In the latter case it recommends that individuals be chosen for lay-off by a commission headed by someone from outside the university but mutually agreeable to the university and faculty. CAUT passed another motion at the meeting calling for a study of the obligations of provincial governments to the funding of universities.

The Faculty of Law at UVic has awarded three $3,500 Law Foundation Entrance and one second year scholarship to outstanding students from various parts of Canada. The Scholarships are renewable for second and third years of the Law degree program if the student maintains a first class standing. The 1978 winners of the Entrance Scholarships are Garry Earl Mancell and Alexander R.J. Stuart, both of British Columbia, and Sheridan Scott of Ontario. The second year award goes to Claudia Herbert of Manitoba.

Dr. Keith Jobson of the University of Victoria's Faculty of Law will be in Manchester, England this month to deliver a major paper on "The Canadian Position Regarding the Protection of Human Rights in Criminal Procedure". He will make his address before a colloquium of the United Kingdom National Committee of Comparative Law which has invited experts from Europe and North America to attend meetings on human rights in criminal procedure. Prior to joining the UVic faculty of law, Jobson was Director of the Sentencing and Dispositions Project of the Law Reform Commission of Canada in Ottawa. He has written extensively in the field of criminal law.

Dr. Peter Smith, Dean of the Faculty of Fine Arts, has been appointed chairman of the Arts Board of B.C. The board will act as an advisory body to Sam Bawlf, Minister of Recreation and Conservation, on grants to the arts in the province. The board will also make policy recommendations to the minister. Included in the board are regional representatives and representatives of a variety of artistic disciplines.

For the second year in a row, annual parking rates for students, faculty and staff have been increased. Rates have been raised $2 across the board for outdoor parking for 1978-79 with a $5 increase for covered parking in University Centre. The Board of Governors approved the new parking fee structure at the July meeting. Students now must pay $15 for general parking while faculty and staff pay $35. Reserved parking spaces have been increased to $35. Reserved underground parking increases from $75 to $80. Motorcycles and scooters can park year-round for $2. Parking permits can be obtained from the traffic and security office in the Saunders Building.

UVic's international reading expert, Dr. John Downing of the psychological foundations division of the Faculty of Education, spent a busy summer in Europe. He attended the United Kingdom Reading Association's annual conference in July as convenor of the international seminar; spoke on "Reading as Reasoning" and on "Reading Research in the Soviet Union"; and participated as a panel member in a debate on spelling reform. He also attended the Seventh World Congress on Reading in Hamburg, Germany and spoke on "Learning to Read in Different Languages — Universals and Specifics". Downing, who is director of fieldwork studies for the first comparative reading institute, attended the Danish Institute for Educational Research in Copenhagen in August.

Oak Bay Police advise students, staff and faculty travelling to campus via Foul Bay Road that a detour, north of Lansdowne Road, will be in operation for at least another week. Police suggest motorists should plan an alternative route to campus. A section of Foul Bay Road has been closed since Sept. 11 between 7:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Monday to Friday for widening work.

Students working towards advanced degrees in the sciences, arts or humanities on topics relating to the Arctic or middle north of Canada can apply for financial aid from the Arctic Institute of North America. The institute provides a maximum of $2,500 to support the individual investigator attempting to complete a small-scale study on a modest budget during the summer. There are no restrictions on applications and native residents of the north are encouraged to apply. Students in the areas of anthropology, sociology, archaeology, linguistics, folklore and curriculum development can apply for a $2,500 grant for studies which must relate to or be accomplished in the north. Applicants must provide evidence of their academic supervisor's approval. Closing date for applications for summer field research is the preceding Dec. 31. For application forms, students can write to the Secretary, Research Programs Committee, The Arctic Institute of North America, University Library Tower, 2920-24th Avenue N.W., Calgary, Alberta.

Dr. Reg Roy (History) and Peter Darling, Director of Supply and Services are co-chairmen of this year's United Appeal on campus. The appeal begins Sept. 18 and the co-chairmen ask for the financial support of faculty and staff. United Appeal agencies cover a wide range of local and national charitable organizations.

With this issue the Ring begins its fourth year of publication. In this first issue we have aimed much of our material at new students on campus. We hope the Survival Guide will be of some assistance in helping you get acquainted with UVic.

For those who aren't acquainted with the Ring, it is the university newspaper, the policy of which is to provide fair and accurate coverage of all aspects of university life. Our readership includes staff, students and faculty.

We welcome comments on our coverage or suggestions for stories. We also welcome letters on any facet of university life. Letters will be published if signed and not libellous, but may be edited to meet space requirements.

This promises to be a busy year at UVic with the official opening of University Centre, the Music Building and new residences. Other buildings are under construction or in the final planning stages. There are new programs and new professors as well as new places on campus.

The Ring will attempt to keep pace with this fast-growing institution. It is published every Friday by information services. Deadline for Calendar entries is the Friday preceding publication. The next issue comes out Sept. 22.

Good luck in 1978-79.

John Driscoll
Editor

No, this is not a student protest, simply a walking tour of campus for more than 700 chancellors and vice-presidents of Commonwealth universities. They were in Victoria for a one-day visit during the Commonwealth Universities Congress in August. The visit included lunch and a concert at Uvic.

Parking rates are higher but so is the mileage rate for the use of private cars on university business. The Board of Governors has approved a rate of 22 cents a mile as of Sept. 1, up from 20 cents a mile. In future the mileage rate will be adjusted each Sept. 1, based on appropriate Statistics Canada price indices, explains chief accountant Dennis Davis.

The only academic to be appointed to the board of governors of the Canadian Institute for Advanced Legal Studies is law dean Murray Fraser of UVic. Chaired by J.V. Clyne of Vancouver, the institute includes representatives of the supreme courts of Canada and the provinces, the Canadian Bar Association, and the legal profession. Among the institute's plans is the development of a regular series of programs to encourage discussion of legal issues among lawyers and judges.

The Pacific Studies program at UVic acquired its own director, July 1, with the appointment of Dr. Jan W. Walls of Vancouver. His appointment as associate professor and director is effective for three years.

Close to 100 people are expected to be buzzing around campus Sept. 23 at a beekeeping seminar sponsored by the resource industries programs at the University of British Columbia. The seminar will be held in the Cornett Building.

letters

Faculty, Staff & Students,

Subject: Energy Conservation

We want your help! Join the University of Victoria "Waste Watchers" in the Department of Buildings & Grounds!

Over the last few years the amount of energy consumed at the University of Victoria on a per square foot basis has been reduced as follows:

- Electrical use down from 1974 by 10 per cent
- Fuel oil use down from 1974 by 20 per cent

These reductions have been effected through the dedicated efforts of the staff of the Buildings & Grounds Department together with the assistance and co-operation from many of you on the campus. Notwithstanding these reductions, the amount spent annually for fuel and electricity (due to increased area and sharply increased rates) has more than doubled from a figure of the order of $300,000 in 1974 to well over $600,000 in 1977.

While we have been very pleased with our savings (or "cost avoidance" if you prefer), we feel that by bringing this subject formally to the attention of the entire University Community, and by asking for your assistance and support, we can do better yet. To indicate how confident I am of your support I have recommended to the Dean of Administration that my department's budget for electricity and fuel for fiscal year 1978-79 be set at a level of some $60,000 below what normal growth and no energy conservation program would expect it to be. In essence then I have recommended a budget cut of some $60,000. Needless to say the Dean of Administration accepted this recommendation with alacrity.

How can you help!

You can help by eliminating waste in doing such things as turning off lights, typewriters and equipment when they are not needed. Also, you can help by possibly dressing more warmly, during the heating season, so that a space temperature of 20°C (68°F) can indeed be comfortable. In addition to these simple acts, you can help by bringing any ideas you may have on energy conservation to our attention. We are always willing to listen to new ideas.

Over the next days, weeks and months you will notice ongoing publicity on this subject in the Martlet and the Ring, together with a campus wide energy conservation poster contest. Only with your active support can we achieve our objectives.

With your help we will succeed — without it we will fail.

Sincerely
J.F. Helme,
Director
Buildings and Grounds

From left, Iglitzin, Sloane and Posnak

Cutting a disc for connoisseurs

Three musicians spent two days recently recording an album in the new University Centre Auditorium at UVic in what could be the beginning of a new era in music on campus.

The recording was made by Ethan Sloane, clarinetist and professor in the Department of Music at UVic, pianist Paul Posnak, professor at Mannes College of Music in New York and Alan Iglitzin, violist with the Philadelphia String Quartet and artist-in-residence at the University of Washington.

The album was made for Crystal Records of Los Angeles, a small "connoissseur" label that produces quality records, specializing in obscure and rare works.

The three musicians recorded Max Bruch's Opus 73, eight romantic pieces written in 1894 which have never before been recorded in their entirety.

Sloane who made the arrangements for the recording, has high praise for the acoustics of the Auditorium. "It's a marvellous facility for recording," he says.

"Our main technical concern before recording was the noise factor about which we'll know more when we listen to the playback," he explains. "But everything has gone beautifully so far."

Sloane hopes that the recording will open the door for more recordings in the Auditorium.

"Optimistically within a few years we can work out some kind of contract with Crystal or some other small label to produce a minimum of four recordings a year in the Auditorium.

"At UVic we have musicians of international stature and we have an excellent facility. There is a ready market for quality recordings of lesser-known works."

Sloane says Victoria has an additional asset in recording engineer Herb Schaefer who worked on the Bruch album. Schaefer has moved to Victoria after 30 years as a recording engineer with the British Broadcasting Corporation.

The album will have an initial pressing of about 3,000 copies with about 1,800 of them distributed to music libraries in colleges, universities and high schools. It is scheduled to be included in the Schwann Record and Tape Guide in the fall.

The recording session was sponsored by a UVic grant and the album cover will point out that it was recorded in the Auditorium.

Sloane has worked on the project for the past six months. The recording session was close to being cancelled when violist Jaraslov Karlovsky, music professor at UVic, who had been practicing with Sloane and Posnak, became ill. Iglitzin agreed to take his place and while the session marked the first time the three musicians had played together, Sloane was pleased with the results.

Sloane and Posnak have toured for seven years with the chamber music ensemble called Interaction Chamber Players. Sloane is a graduate of the New England Conservatory of Music and of Yale where he is completing his doctorate. He has taught at Yale and Mannes College and has been a frequent member of the prestigious Marlboro Music Festival. He was artist-in-residence at the University of Northern Iowa before coming to UVic in 1977.

Posnak studied at Julliard and has performed at the White House. Among prizes he has won are the Loeb Prize and the International J.S. Bach Competition.

Iglitzin was a member of the Philadelphia Orchestra as well as the Quartet for many years. He performed at the Shawnigan Summer Music Festival this year, where he and Sloane met.

Degrees for three at Convocation

Internationally acclaimed contralto Maureen Forrester and two men who have made outstanding contributions to the arts in Victoria, Robin Wood, principal of the Victoria Conservatory of Music and Colin Graham, Director Emeritus of the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria, will receive honorary degrees at a special UVic Convocation Sept. 28.

The convocation beginning at 4 p.m., marks the official opening of UVic's $8 million University Centre and will be held in the centre's ultra-modern Auditorium, hailed as one of the finest acoustically-designed buildings in Canada.

The convocation will also mark the opening of a new building for the Music Department which until this year has been operating in cramped quarters on campus.

More than 1,200 people have been invited to the Convocation.

The degree of Doctor of Laws, honoris causa, will be conferred upon Forrester, Wood and Graham by UVic chancellor Dr. Robert Wallace.

Forrester is a Canadian who has been heard by audiences on five continents as a distinguished soloist with virtually every major orchestra in the world during the past 20 years.

She has been described as one of the greatest recitalists of this generation and since making her debut with the Metropolitan Opera in the 1974-75 season has devoted more of her time to the operatic stage.

She has appeared at Carnegie Hall, New York's Metropolitan Museum of Art, the National Arts Centre and Lincoln Centre. This year she toured the People's Republic of China with the Toronto Symphony Orchestra.

Forrester: she'll sing

Wood, who was born in Victoria, has an international reputation both as a pianist and as a teacher. He has won several awards including the Queen's Prize in a competition in Britain and a Boise Scholarship for study in France and Switzerland with Edwin Fischer.

He was Professor of Piano at the Royal Academy of Music in London from 1954 to 1965 and established a career as a solo and chamber artist in Britain.

In 1965 he returned to Victoria to become principal of the Victoria Conservatory of Music. The Conservatory with 1,200 students became affiliated with the University of Victoria in 1968. Wood teaches piano performance at UVic and his students both at UVic and the conservatory have won many awards and competitions.

"Robin is directly responsible for the success of the conservatory," says one UVic Music professor.

Graham was born in Vancouver and attended pre-medical school at the University of British Columbia before enrolling at Cambridge University in England, graduating with honors in History.

He worked for the Department of External Affairs in Ottawa during the Second World War, returning to university in 1945. He received an M.A. degree in Art from the University of California and lectured at the California College of Fine Arts.

Wood: teacher and pianist

Graham was director of education at the California Palace of the Legion of Honor at San Francisco Civic Art Museum before coming to Victoria in 1951 as the Director of the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria.

He was named Director Emeritus of the gallery in 1973 in recognition of his efforts in establishing a first-rate gallery in Victoria.

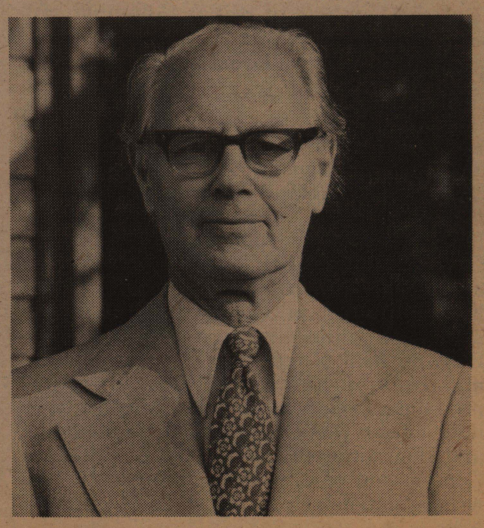
"Colin has contributed an incredible amount to visual arts in Victoria," says Dr. Peter Smith, Dean of the Faculty of Fine Arts. "He has been a scholar and friend of practicing artists for so many years. And he has achieved a national reputation for his work here."

Graham is a member of the International Association of Art Critics, an honorary citizen of Victoria and this year received an Award of Merit from the Canadian Museums Association.

While the ceremony marks the official opening of the new University Centre, the office wing has been in operation for the past year.

The centre contains student services departments including Accounting, Admissions, a Canada Manpower office, Continuing Education Co-operative Education, Counselling, Graduate Studies and Research Administration, Student Financial Aid, Student Records, Summer Session and non-academic bookings. Previously, these departments were located in former army huts scattered around campus.

In addition the centre contains the Auditorium, a Senate and Board of Governors meeting room, the Maltwood Art Museum and Gallery and a cafeteria and lounge.



Graham: "a friend of artists"

SURVIVAL GUIDE

Danylchuk photo

Looking for good Guidance

If you are feeling scared, alienated, pressured or just plain confused, don't hesitate to contact the Counselling Centre on the second floor of University Centre. There, a professional counselling staff is ready to provide information and advice to help you cope with any problems in either your personal or academic life. You can obtain help with education, vocation and career planning, study-learning habits, managing anxiety, preparing for examinations, communicating, losing weight and stopping smoking. Already some of this year's students got a head start through a course given at the Counselling Centre in late August. The two-week course concentrated on orienting students to university life and skills needed to cope and achieve academically. It offered tips on how to use the library, take notes, write reports, handle exams and read more effectively. The centre offers a variety of other courses during the Winter Session. It is open from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and students can drop in any time or phone for an appointment. The locals are 4347, 4348, 6623 and 6160.

How to get money

If you had a rough time finding employment during the summer and you're wondering how you are going to survive financially while attending classes, pay a visit to the Student Financial Aid Services office on the second floor of University Centre. You may be eligible for financial assistance in the form of a non-repayable grant and a repayable loan. You'll have to pass a means test imposed by government officials and if you're from a family background where substantial aid is available the maximum financial aid you can get is less. Financial Aid manager Nels Granewall and his staff are very busy these days processing applications filled out by students before July 1. Students are advised to phone ahead for an appointment and are forewarned they may have a long wait before getting the loan-grant because of the September rush. If you need financial aid you must apply before Oct. 9 to be eligible for the entire year. About one-third of UVic students in 1977-78 received some financial assistance.

Where to put money

The closest bank for students, faculty and staff is right here in the Campus Services Building where a branch of the Bank of Montreal is open to the public from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday to Thursday and until 6 p.m. Fridays. Pay days at UVic are on the 15th and last day of each month and on these days the bank buzzes with activity. These days the Canada Student Loans Department of the bank in the basement of the Campus Services Building is one of the busier places on campus.

Crowds come to the copper dome

The copper-domed University Centre was conceived as a "hub of activity" for UVic, offering a place for interaction between students, faculty, staff and the public. At the end of the first year of operation it's evident that the idea has worked, perhaps even better than planners predicted. The large cafeteria in the centre has become the most popular eating and meeting place on campus. The office wing of the Centre contains student services offices which were scattered in former army huts around campus. This section also contains the meeting room for UVic's supreme governing bodies, the Senate and the Board of Governors. The showpieces of the Centre however are the $3 million Auditorium and the Maltwood Art Museum and Gallery, both off the main foyer. The 1,275-seat Auditorium has been hailed as the finest structure of its kind. This academic year it will be the scene of concerts by internationally-acclaimed artists as well as productions by the music department, high schools and community groups. The Maltwood Gallery is currently exhibiting selections from both the UVic and Maltwood collection. Later in the year, exhibits of works by visual arts students and travelling exhibits will be offered.

Meals, munchies and beverages

Different tastes in food and drink are catered to at different spots around campus. A central meeting place is the cafeteria off the main foyer of University Centre. There you can obtain everything from beverages and snacks to a full-course meal, between 8 a.m. and 8:30 p.m. The health food bar in the upper lounge of the Student Union Building (SUB) attracts many lovers of good food with its big sandwiches, soups, salads and sweet treats. Ideal for vegetarians, it is open from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Downstairs the SUB cafeteria provides hamburgers and other snacks from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. on Mondays and from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. Tuesday to Friday. The cafeteria is open Saturdays from 11:30 a.m. to 7 p.m. and Sundays from 11:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. The SUB also features the licenced West Wing dining room which is open Monday to Friday from 12 noon to 2 p.m. A pleasant, quiet spot for lunch is the licenced Raven's Wing in the Commons Block, open from 11 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Next door the Coffee Gardens in the Commons Block will be divided to provide regular cafeteria service on one side with table service and alcoholic beverages on the other. Food Services manager John Watson promises an elegant salad and soup bar and an outdoor motif in an indoor, cafe-style area. There will be a minimum charge of $1 per person to cover extra costs from 11;30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Monday through Friday on the salad bar side. The entire Coffee Gardens area is open from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Fine full-course meals are available in the fully-licenced Faculty Club which is, however, open only to club members and guests. Coffee and snacks are also available from vending machines in buildings around campus.

The University

The University of Victoria came into being on July 1, 1963, starting as a few buildings on a large campus of about 350 acres in what is known as the Gordon Head area of Saanich. Then there were about 2,000 students, many of them temporarily on the old Lansdowne campus of UVic's predecessor, Victoria College. Now UVic has an enrolment that during last year's winter session totalled nearly 7,500 graduate and undergraduate students. It also has a well-developed campus with several major construction projects underway

A Board of Governors regulates UVic's financial affairs, physical plants and appointments, with the Senate being the supreme academic body. The chancellor is Dr. Robert T. Wallace, and the president, the university's fourth, is Dr. Howard E. Petch. The historical traditions of the university are reflected in its academic regalia. The B.A. hood is of solid red, a color that recalls the early affiliation with McGill. The B.Sc. hood, of gold, and the B.Ed. hood, of blue, show the colors of U.B.C. Blue and gold have been retained as the official colors of UVic. This year UVic adopted its own new flag. Three red martlets in the upper left hand corner are set against a gold panel of color across the top, and a blue band of color runs across the bottom. The martlets represent McGill which uses three red martlets on a red and white design.

University Centre

General Inquiries: Accounting; Administrative Registrar; Admissions; Auditorium; Cafeteria; Canada Manpower Centre; Continuing Education; Co-operative Education; Counselling; Graduate Studies and Research Administration; Joint Ministry; Maltwood Art Museum and Gallery; Non-Academic Bookings; Senate/Board Room; Student Financial Aid; Student Records Office; Summer Session; Recital Hall

Student Union

AMS Offices; Cafeter
Auditorium

Saunders

Building & Grounds; Campus Planning; Traffic & Security; Mail Services

Clearihue

Computing and Systems Services; Creative Writing Malahat Review; English; Environmental Studies; French Languages & Literature; Germanic Languages & Literature; Linguistics; Mathematics Pacific Studies; Slavonic & Oriental Studies

The McKinnon Centre

Athletics & Recreational Services and Facilities; Physical Education

The Huts

E – Faculty Club
J – Graduate Students' Society
B.C.N.I.T.A. Liaison Office; Intercultural Education; L.E.A.R.N. Faculty Association; UVic Correctional Education Programme
K – Purchasing Services
L – Personnel; Secretarial Services: Biochemistry & Microbiology
M – Visual Arts
N – Biochemistry & Microbiology
O – Biochemistry & Microbiology Laboratories
P – Classrooms and Storage
Q – Phoenix Theatre, Theatre
R – Administration Stores; Theatre Box Office
S – Old Gymnasium

Student Services Building

Bank; Campus Shop; Bookstore; Print Shop

Cornett

Anthropology; Economics; Geography; History; Political Science; Psychology; Sociology

Sedgewick

Child Care; Classics; Hispanic & Italian Studies; History in Art; Institutional Analysis; Nursing; Offices of the President; Philosophy; Social Work

The
is of
, and s the ne
band
artlets

Mount Baker (Washington, U.S.A.)

Student Union Building

AMS Offices; Cafeteria; Martlet Office; S.U.B. Auditorium

McPherson Library

Central Library; Media & Technical Services; Office of Secretary of Senate, Board of Governors and Faculties (Registrar)
Law; Law Library

ervices; Creative Writing;
Environmental Studies;
rature; Germanic
Linguistics; Mathematics;
& Oriental Studies

University House

Alumni Association; Ceremonies; Community Relations; Information Services

Commons Block
Coffee Shop; Dining Room; Food Services; Gold Room Green Room; Lower Lounge; Raven's Wing

University Health Services

Sinclair Rd.

Finnerty Rd.

Craigdarroch Residence

New Student Residences

Lansdowne Residence
Housing & Conferences Services; Student Residences
Housing & Conferences Services; Student Residences

Elliott

Chemistry, Physics

Cunningham

Biology

Music Wing

University Gardens

University Drive

MacLaurin

Arts & Science; Education; Fine Arts; Language & Listening Labs

Find fitness and fun

Since opening in 1975, the McKinnon Centre has been a smash hit with squash players. The six squash courts are seldom empty. Bookings can be made 24 hours in advance and it's wise to make a booking 24 hours in advance, to the minute. Swimming, badminton, volleyball, basketball, weight-lifting, gymnastics, dancing and martial arts are among physical activities pursued by students, staff and faculty at UVic's jock palace. In addition there are jogging trails, a new 400-metre track at Centennial Stadium, tennis courts and playing fields for outdoor fun and exercise. Athletics and Recreational Services provides short instructional classes, special events and lectures. The facilities are open to all fee-paying students as well as faculty, staff and alumni who have purchased an activity card. Hours at the McKinnon have been extended this year. The building opens at 7:30 a.m. and closes at midnight Monday through Friday and is open Saturdays and Sundays from 10 a.m. to 10:30 p.m. Recreational swimming hours during the day Monday to Friday are from 7:30 to 8:30 a.m.; 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. and from 3:30 to 6 p.m. Saturdays the pool is open from 1 to 5 p.m. and Sundays from 12 noon to 5 p.m. Evenings the pool is open from 9 to 10:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday; 8:30 to 10:30 p.m. Fridays and 8 to 10 p.m. on the weekends. Authorized families can use any of the facilities on Friday evenings, weekends and holidays.

Parking calls for fees

If you haven't obtained a parking permit you are advised to dash over to the Traffic and Security Building right away. You may already be late since there is a heavy demand for permits in September, but you can get on a waiting list. Parking on campus costs less than almost anywhere else in Victoria (see Ringers, this issue). The permit is not however a guarantee that you'll be able to park your car in your favorite spot every time. Last year there were about 4,270 permits for about 3,400 general and reserved spaces so your permit is really a "licence to hunt" for a parking spot. The system works well because not everyone is on campus at the same time. Traffic and Security officers have some advice for students, staff and faculty with permits who come on campus in a car other than the one displaying the permit. Don't leave a note on the windshield explaining the circumstances. Traffic and Security don't read notes on windshields because they've found that often these are personal messages. There is a solution however. Traffic and Security will make out a temporary permit at no charge to anyone driving a vehicle other than the one bearing the permit. The office is open at 8 a.m. and it takes only five minutes to get the temporary sticker. And make no mistake about it. If you don't have a permit displayed on your windshield, sooner or later you'll get nailed. An infraction costs $2 if paid within three days, otherwise it's $3. Unpaid fines result in suspension of parking privileges. There are other methods of getting to campus than by car. Car pools, bicycling and buying a student bus pass make sense. If you are a health nut, there's nothing like a brisk jog to campus in the morning followed by a shower in the McKinnon Centre before starting classes. Once on campus you'll find it easier to get around on foot than to drive and hunt for parking spots. No building is more than a 10-minute walk from any other and the scenery is impressive.

Everybody calls it the SUB

The Student Union Building (SUB) is the centre of student political life and also hums with social and club activities. The offices of the Alma Mater Society president and executive, the Martlet student newspaper, the AMS general manager and the ombudsman can all be found here. Downstairs is the cafeteria, the licenced West Wing dining room and the SUB Pub which rocks Tuesday to Saturday from 4 p.m. to midnight. The popular health food bar is located in the upper lounge which hosts a variety of functions and is a good place to just sit and talk. Cinecenta movies (see Calendar) are shown in the 300-seat auditorium. The AMS also provides topical and controversial noon-hour speakers in the auditorium which is part of a $1 million addition added in 1975 to the oldest building (1962) on the Gordon Head campus. The SUB general office is open from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. That's where you can find out about activities going on in the building. The AMS president has an open-door policy and student senators and Board of Governors members are eager to meet with their constituents.

For pains and social diseases

People come to the Health Services Building with a variety of problems, from colds, cuts and sore throats to concerns about emotional well-being, venereal disease and birth control. The building is located at the southeast corner of Parking Lot 5 and is open from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Dr. John Peterson is director and works full-time on campus and another doctor is available on a part-time basis. Health Services also has the part-time services of two psychiatrists, physiotherapist Allan Millier who works out of a clinic in the McKinnon Centre, and nutritionist Elspeth Charsley (see story this issue). Students are advised to phone ahead for an appointment and to bring their medical insurance coverage with them.

Kids on campus

UVic Day Care Service facilities are filled for September with children aged 2 to 5. There are three day care locations on campus for 55 children who spend five days a week in a centre. The centres are located near the Saunders Building. The objective of Day Care Services is to provide a stimulating program within a home-like atmosphere, explains manager Lucille MacKay. She suggests students with pre-school children call Centre #1 on McCoy Rd. at 4857 to get on the waiting list.

How to find a place to live

Students or new faculty members who still haven't found a place to live would be wise to contact the Housing Services Office in the Lansdowne Residence. Gavin Quiney, residence co-ordinator, and his staff keep an up-to-date list of off-campus accommodations for students and faculty. The listings for students are in the lobby, open until 11 p.m. seven days a week. The listings have been compiled by UVic and Camosun Community College. For 900 students, home is on the campus in the Craigdarroch, Lansdowne and brand new Gordon Head residences. Residence living is much in demand, offering accessibity to the campus with the opportunity to socialize with fellow-students. The residences contain lounges, games room, and coin-operated washers and dryers. Parking is provided in Lot 5, off Sinclair Road. Permits are necessary and available from the Housing Services office. Meals are provided in the cafeteria-dining room on the second floor of the Commons Building.

Helping hands are here for you

If you find yourself entangled in red tape during your first few weeks on campus, there are hired hands around ready to help. The Alma Mater Society has hired a part-time ombudsman, Patricia Beatty-Guenter, who has an office in the Student Union Building (SUB). She assists students in untangling red tape and acts on their behalf in any problems with the university administration. Help on courses and timetables is provided by the Arts and Science Advising Centre, Room 323 in the MacLaurin Building and Faculty of Education Advising Centre in MacLaurin 250. If you have any general questions about the university, call or drop into the office of Information Services where, among other things, The Ring is produced. We'll try to answer your questions and if we can't, we'll direct you to someone who can. We're located on the outer edge of campus, in University House, off Haro Road.

Browsing and book buying

If you are still looking for textbooks you'll find everything you need in the bookstore located in the Campus Services Building. These days there's no way of avoiding the rush because the book store is always crowded for the beginning of Winter Session. It's operated on a break-even basis and you can pick up required and recommended textbooks. At the beginning of Winter Session the bookstore holds its sidewalk sale of old textbooks, trade books and general interest books. This year's sale begins Sept. 18. The bookstore is a good place for browsing with more than 15,000 titles in paperback and hardcover editions to provide background reading, reference material for essays and up-to-date reading of interest. A feature of the bookstore is an extensive collection of popular and obscure government publications. Bookstore manager Mrs. Trudy Martin is an official agent of the federal Department of Supply and Services. During Winter Session the store is open from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

It's the general store

The Campus Shop, located in the Campus Services Building, is UVic's general store, with items ranging from aspirins to sporting goods, the store, operated under Bookstore manager Mrs. Trudy Martin, also provides the services of a sub-post office. The all-purpose store offers a wide selection of clothing, school and art supplies, gym strip, sweat suits, crested ware, gift items, cosmetics, greeting cards, stationery, games. The latest magazines, records and current paperbacks are available. Hours during Winter Session are from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Make it your library

At the heart of UVic is the McPherson Library where students and faculty study, do research and browse. First-time visitors to campus are often surprised by its size. The McPherson is the largest library on Vancouver Island. Its acquisitions include more than 800,000 volumes, more than 1 million items on microfilm and more than 15,000 records and tapes. The Curriculum Laboratory, located in the MacLaurin Building, has a specialized collection of more than 30,000 volumes and other materials to support teaching requirements in the Faculty of Education. The University Map Collection in the Cornett Building houses more than 60,000 maps and aerial photographs. With the exception of the Special Collections division containing rare books and manuscripts, the library's resources are housed in open stacks to which there is full public access. Students will find their library card an invaluable asset. The card is a key piece of identification, permitting a student to gain entrance to the SUB Pub, Cinecenta and many social and athletic functions. Cards are obtained at the circulation desk on the main floor. The main library is open Monday to Thursday from 8 a.m. to 11 p.m. and on Fridays from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays, the library is open from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Finding it at lost and found

If you lose something on campus don't panic. Immediately find "Lost and Found", located in the Traffic and Security office in the Saunders Building. Traffic and Security officials advise people to drop in several times if they lose something as it may not be turned in to the office right away. Every year Traffic and Security encounter the same problem, a wide variety of items that are turned in and never claimed. All the goods which accumulate, and they always do, are donated to charity at the end of the academic year. Unclaimed money goes to the Alma Mater Society's general fund. Lost and Found is open from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. There is also a lost and found department in the McPherson Library at the circulation desk.

'Slums' become studios

Tiessen: visual arts finds a home

The huts on campus are often referred to as "the slums", low-slung grey buildings constructed more than 30 years ago as temporary army barracks.

Faculty and students in the Department of Visual Arts are in the process of moving into "the slums" but they regard the move as a step in the right direction.

Visual Arts has taken over 'M' Hut, which once held student services offices, and will also occupy an adjacent warehouse-type building now under construction.

"We're happy to be here," says acting department chairman George Tiessen. "For us, accommodations here are much better than what we've had."

It wasn't originally planned that Visual Arts would move into the huts. In fact, UVic administrators plan the gradual removal of the huts as more permanent facilities are constructed.

But capital funds have become increasingly difficult to obtain and a planned $2.5 million visual arts building was shelved indefinitely.

As an alternative, extensive renovations were made to 'M' Hut and the 10,500-square-foot new building was approved.

"Ultimately we expect a permanent facilitly," says Tiessen. "Right now we're delighted with the increased space we have."

Visual Arts has always been a kind of orphan at UVic, with students scattered around campus.

Sculpture students worked in the basement of the MacLaurin Building; printmakers studied in a section of 'L' Hut; painting and photography students worked out of cramped quarters in the MacLaurin Building.

"We've never been together in one place and this has made it difficult to operate as a department," explains Tiessen.

The new building, scheduled for completion this year , is a $500,000 facility containing a printmaking and screen printing studio, a large sculpture studio and an outdoor sculpture court. It has been designed to be easily converted to a buildings and grounds department facility when Visual Arts gets a permanent home.

'M' Hut now contains a large painting studio, smaller studios for graduate students, four darkrooms for photography, classrooms and faculty offices.

It also contains a small student and faculty lounge, not fancy but the first the department has ever had.

Tiessen says faculty members are pleased with offices which are much larger than those they had in the MacLaurin Building.

"The trouble with art is that there is never really enough space," he says. "The more space we have, the larger the works we can do. Sometimes this is difficult for others in the academic community to understand when space is being allocated."

"We don't need elaborate equipment but we do need space."

Visual Arts had more than 250 undergraduate students enrolled in courses for 1977-78.

The work of visual arts students is gathering a wider audience on campus with the opening of University Centre which has space in the lobby for sculpture exhibits and a first-rate gallery for exhibitons.

Tiessen says the department is strong in the areas of sculpture, painting and printmaking and UVic students have been "quite successful" in winning awards.

"A lot of our students go on to graduate schools and some are practicing artists," he explains. "This is a very versatile discipline. Our students are here because they want to be here, not because of any job expectations."

Musicians come out of the closets

With the completion of a $3.5 million Music Building and the opening of an ultra modern $3 million Auditorium on campus, professors in the Department of Music at the University of Victoria feel they have music facilities "second to none" in Canadian universities.

The 1,275-seat Auditorium with its surround-stage and elaborate acoustical design is being used by the community, high schools and other departments at UVic as well as the Music Department.

The Music Building is the new home of the department which has about 170 graduate and undergraduate students.

The Auditorium, located in the new University Centre, is designed to be versatile and functional with the emphasis on sight lines and acoustics.

The farthest seat from the 40 by 50 foot stage is only 79 feet away. Bolt, Beranek and Newman of Boston, one of the world's leading acoustical design firms, have created an elaborate, adjustable, acoustical system which provides an optimum reverberation time of two and one half seconds.

In the ironwork just below the ceiling are a series of 21 tapestries that encircle the hall and can be raised or lowered. Above the stage is a pyramid of panels which can be adjusted individually for the various performances.

Acousticians pronounced the hall "practically without flaw acoustically" after a series of test performances in April ranging from solo piano to full orchestra and chorus with soloists.

Bolt, Beranek and Newman also provided the acoustical design for the soundproof Music Building which replaces cramped and inadequate quarters in the MacLaurin Building.

The building features a 200-seat recital hall which incorporates many of the Auditorium's acoustical features.

Danylchuk photo

Corwin and Orchestra rehearse for opening night

In their former quarters music students had only four practice rooms and could be found practising in washrooms, closets and hallways.

The new building contains 40 practice rooms, 20 teaching studios and two large rehearsal halls.

There are also three electronic studios which contain the most sophisticated anolg, digital and hybrid sound-generating equipment. Included are analog synthesizers by ARP, Buckla and Serg. There are full-professional mixing and recording facilities.

Specially constructed studios are available for organ and percussion instruments. The building also contains a reading room, library, large classroom and lounge.

All of the studios, halls and practice rooms are specially soundproofed down to heavily leaded doors.

"Where before we had nothing specifically designed for music, we now have space and the most modern facilities," says Music Department chairman Prof. Rudolf Komorous.

"It has been a long struggle but we have now been well provided for by this university."

New residences open

The new 300-bed residence complex at the University of Victoria was officially opened Sept. 8 with the unveiling of a plaque by Senator Ray Perrault, Government Leader in the Senate.

The new residence, which will be known as Gordon Head complex, has three halls, each named after UVic chancellors: Dr. Richard B. Wilson, Dr. Roderick Haig-Brown and Dr. Robert T. Wallace.

The rooms in the Gordon Head residences provide single accommodation for 900 students.

"There is more of a demand for single rooms than double," says Shirley Baker, manager of Housing and Conference Services. "Lansdowne and Craigdarroch, the other residences, offer both single and double accommodation."

The completion of the new residence complex enables housing services to offer 13 per cent of the undergraduate student population accommodation on campus, providing student enrolment remains the same as last year. In 1977-78, UVic could offer only eight per cent of the student population on-campus housing.

The opening of the Gordon Head complex will make it possible to provide on-campus accommodation to students in third and fourth year programs. In the past, the residences were restricted to first and second year students.

"We are fortunate to have this new complex," says Baker. "Without President Howard Petch's support and hard work it would not be here today."

Petch lived in residence for the first six months of his term of office as president of UVic. During this time he recognized the need for additional housing on campus and has been involved in the project from start to finish.

Charsley: obesity the number one nutritional problem on campus

If you don't like it, you can lose it

By Donna Danylchuk

If you are a student or staff member at UVic and also among the 50 per cent of the adult Canadian population who are overweight, read on.

Before going further, however, you might as well come to grips with one question: Could you develop the intestinal fortitude, the sheer strength of will, to forego a favorite fattening food at least once a day?

You could? Good.

One more question: Could you persuade yourself to take some form of exercise such as a walk around the Ring Road once a day?

You could? Excellent.

This means that, if sufficiently overweight, you might qualify for a free course on weight control being offered this fall by UVic consultant nutritionist Elspeth Charsley.

Being just 10 to 15 pounds overweight is not enough. To be accepted you must be at least 10 to 20 per cent over ideal body weight. To find out whether you fit this description, if you are female establish the ideal weight at 100 pounds for five feet and add five pounds for every inch you reach over that. If you are male, establish the ideal weight at 106 pounds for five feet and add six pounds for every extra inch. Both males and females should add 10 per cent for a heavy build or subtract 10 per cent for a slight one.

If your weight creeps up to over 10 per cent over your established ideal weight, you are a candidate for this course.

If you would like to shed those excess pounds and keep them off, Charsley would like to have you in her behaviour modification program (BMP). It begins Sept. 26 and will last 10 weeks, with one hour each week devoted to classes. Charsley prefers to limit enrolment to 10 people, in order to give everybody the individual attention they require. She hopes that people who register will make a firm commitment to attending all classes and completing the course. Otherwise, well-intentioned but easily-sidetracked participants might limit opportunities for more serious weight-losers.

Registration and classes take place at University Health Services, behind the student residences. If you are unable to take the course this fall, it will be offered again in January.

Since she began working part-time at UVic last January, Charsley has noticed that obesity is the number one nutritional problem on campus. She has also talked with many residence students who are concerned about gaining weight.

Charsley does not believe in adapting menus to suit different groups of people in large institutions such as the university. Her approach is to teach people to eat discriminately, no matter what is offered on the menu.

She has developed BMP through personal research and has been conducting versions of the program downtown for the past two years as a nutritionist with the Ministry of Health. BMP is designed to help people make small culmulative changes in their everyday lives which will contribute to permanent, healthful eating habits. It is a step-by-step process which concentrates on good nutrition, diet, exercise and control of stress, and also includes hints on how weight-watchers can deal with those situations which call for almost superhuman control of one's appetite. (This may prove useful for those who take the course this fall which winds up in mid-December just before the holiday season).

Losing weight is a more difficult matter for some people than others; some people simply put on weight more easily, says Charsley. She feels eating is an emotional matter for many people and keeping excess poundage at bay requires real effort when much of our social life revolves around food. On top of all this, she adds, there is far too much junk food and fats, sugar and salt in the Canadian diet.

Charsley believes the battle to be slim is worth it. Obesity is not only uncomfortable in itself,but can predispose people to other health problems such as poor cardiovascular condition, back problems and diabetes. It can also lead to skin and hair problems. "I have noticed that, as the weight comes off, skin and hair problems often clear up. People tend to take better care of themselves as they lose weight."

Obesity is not the only nutritional concern Charsley will deal with during the Tuesdays she will spend on campus this year. If you are suffering from fatigue, anaemia or dental caries, the roots of your problem might lie in your diet.

Charsley's diagnoses and counselling are available for those who need it.

To register for BMP, or to make an appointment for other nutritional counselling, visit or phone University Health Services, local 4413 or 4496, and talk to the nurse-in-charge.

CAMPUS BRIEFS

UVic will renew sports competition with Simon Fraser University this fall, following a decision by the Canada West University Athletic Association (CWUAA) in May to lift a ban on CWUAA members competing with SFU.

Extramurals co-ordinator and Vikings basketball coach Ken Shields says a home-and-home series between the men's and women's basketball teams at UVic and SFU has been confirmed for November 14 and January 30.

"We are also endeavoring to schedule games in soccer, ladies' field hockey and volleyball."

Shields says the lifting of the CWUAA ban is a "tremendous move. It permits us to engage in healthy, high-calibre competition with another Canadian university that is close at hand."

It was Shields who presented a motion to the CWUAA meeting that member institutions be permitted to decide individually on whether to compete with SFU.

The CWUAA ban was placed on competion with SFU because of the SFU policy of awarding sports scholarships.

There has been no move yet to permit SFU to join the CWUAA and Shields says he had mixed feelings about this. "I am personally in favor of athletic scholarships if administered properly.

"But I feel that a team which provides scholarships would have an unfair advantage in a league where other teams do not. The league would be thrown out of kilter."

Dr. Alex McAuley, Director of Co-operative Education at UVic has been elected president of the fast-growing Canadian Association for Co-operative Education.

McAuley, a chemistry professor at UVic, was elected president for 1978-79 at the recent annual general meeting of the association at the University of Toronto. He succeeds Dr. Gordon Lancaster of Fanshaw College.

Co-operative Education at UVic is a year-round program in several departments where top students alternate between academic courses and work in industry in jobs related to their academic studies. McAuley has been involved in Co-op Education at UVic since its inception in 1976.

Co-operative Education in the United States and Canada has had a phenomenal growth rate. Since 1969 the number of students in the program has increased by 730 per cent.

"There has been remarkable growth and the number of programs in the U.S.A. and Canada is now 1,054," says McAuley. "Of these 53 per cent are in universities while the rest are in junior colleges."

McAuley says the most recent survey reveals that there are 204,757 students enrolled in co-op programs. "This growth has been achieved by the co-operative efforts of post-secondary institutions, governmental and industry."

For post-secondary students Co-op affords an outstanding opportunity to "learn and earn", putting into practice their academic training. Employers have the opportunity to utilize the skills of a top student.

Six athletes currently attending UVic have received athletic awards and scholarships from the provincial government for the 1978-79 academic year.

Gymnast Dave Bibby and Debbie Smith, of the women's field hockey team will receive the Premier's Award worth $1,000.

B.C. awards, valued at $750, went to Nancy Archbould, of the Vikettes field hockey team, Chris Hebb and Ian Hyde-Lay, of the Vikings basketball team and Janice Mason, a member of the UVic rowing team. The UVic winner of the Nancy Greene Scholarship for $750 is Robbie Parris of the basketball Vikings.

All of the awards and scholarships are funded with money from the B.C. Physical Fitness and Amateur Sports Fund and lotteries proceeds.

Former UVic athletes Harold Wellers and Cheryl Mason receive $750 awards. Both students are attending Simon Fraser University this year.

Other UVic athletes to receive $750 awards are first-year students Jennifer Bland of Victoria, Kevin Flynn of Campbell River, Gerald Kazanowski of Nanaimo and Laura Lynn Mottishaw of Ladysmith.

UVic students will have an opportunity to attend a preview of the inaugural concert in the University Centre Auditorium.

Only students can attend the dress rehearsal of the performance of Beethoven's Ninth (Choral) Symphony conducted by George Corwin with the University of Victoria Chorus and Orchestra and distinquished soloists beginning at 7:30 p.m. Sept. 28.

Tickets, for this performance only, cost $2.

The second piece on the program is R. Vaughan Williams' Serenade to Music for 15 solo voices and orchestra.

The inaugural concerts Sept. 29 and 30 beginning at 8 p.m. are benefit performances, open to the public, for the Taylor Music Scholarship Fund. All revenues in excess of expenditures are placed in trust for music scholarships at UVic.

Joining the 275-member University Chorus and Orchestra are soprano Barbara Collier of Toronto, mezzo-soprano Phyllis Mailing of Vancouver, tenor Thomas Haywood of Banff, and baritone Bernard Turgeon of Victoria.

The Taylor Scholarship Fund was established in 1968 and has provided 14 students with financial assistance during the past 10 years. The scholarships are presented in honor of Dr. M.G. Taylor, first president of UVic.

Tickets for the inaugural concerts are available at the University Centre box office, Monday to Friday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., beginning Sept. 18. Reserved tickets are $4, $5 and $6 for adults and $3 for senior citizens and students.

(sc)
LE3
V4aA33

Searching for a new V-P

UVic administrators do not intend to waste any time putting together a search committee to find a replacement for Vice-President Dr. George Pedersen, who will take over as president of Simon Fraser University at the start of the new year.

Following the late August announcement of Pedersen's new appointment, the move began to organize a 13-member search committee to be chaired by President Dr. Howard Petch and composed of seven elected faculty members, one dean, two undergraduate students, one graduate student and one Senate representative.

According to reports at The Ring deadline, the committee will be formed by Sept. 20. One of the first duties of the new committee will be to decide whether to conduct its search exclusively at UVic, or to also consider external candidates for the UVic vice-presidency.

The name of the candidate chosen by the committee will be presented for a ratification vote by all full-time faculty members before the committee's final choice is presented to the Board of Governors (BOG) for approval. This selection procedure, approved by the BOG in May, 1977, is part of what have become known as the "Petch procedures" for appointments to senior levels on campus. Essentially, the Petch procedures feature the recommendation by a search committee of one person to a post, which is then ratified by a secret ballot carried out in the department or faculty affected. This is in marked contrast to selection procedures used prior to Petch's arrival on campus in 1975.

Pedersen will succeed Dr. Pauline Jewett as SFU's chief executive officer Jan. 1, 1979, and has been given a renewable contract to August 31, 1984 at an initial yearly salary of $63,000.

Finding a replacement for UVic's lanky, 47-year old vice-president may not be a simple task. His contributions to UVic have been extensive since he joined the university in 1972 as dean of the Faculty of Education. He has been active on several fronts since he was appointed vice-president in 1975 and, occasionally, has been an outspoken critic of those provincial educational policies and practices which he believes to be detrimental to effective long-range planning in the field of higher education.

Among Pedersen's duties as vice-president are

- acting as chairman of the Senate Committee on Planning which began two years ago to define the long-range goals of UVic
- dealing with requests from all academic deans for personnel and related resources at a time when university budgets are being sharply pared
- being involved in salary talks with faculty
- taking part in planning building priorities for UVic at a time when the Universities Council of British Columbia has sometimes been reluctant to part with funds for capital projects.

Students study while staff stews

"A hungry staff is not a happy staff."

This was the message delivered to UVic administrators at a general "rap session" recently for staff and faculty to discuss food facilities on campus.

Ted Sawchuk, director of Student and Ancillary Services, associate director Shirley Baker and Food Services manager John Watson were on hand at the meeting to listen to complaints and handle questions.

The meeting, organized by CUPE Local 951, attracted about 50 people to MacLaurin 144 and most of them were concerned with lunch-hour crowds, especially at the University Centre cafeteria.

"We have only an hour for lunch and there should be a place where we can get a meal quickly," said one staff member. "University Centre's cafeteria is too crowded and often students use the cafeteria tables for studying at the busiest times," said another.

Sawchuk said this is a perennial problem and that most students will cooperate if asked to study elsewhere during busy periods.

Watson said he had hoped for a 500-table cafeteria in the Centre, instead of the 200-table facility that was provided. He's hoping however that an innovation in the Commons Block cafeteria will lure some of the noon-hour crowds to that part of campus.

Half the cafeteria has been converted to provide table service with a $1 minimum charge for lunch. There will be a well-stocked salad bar, soup and an outdoor motif in the indoor cafe-style area. Alcoholic beverages will be available on the salad bar side. "I'm hoping this facility will become the most popular staff dining area," he explains. "We just can't afford to have a private dining facility solely for the staff."

CAPHER award goes to Martens

Dr. Fred Martens, (Physical Education), has received the highest award of the Canadian Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation (CAPHER).

Martens received an R. Tait McKenzie Honour Award at the annual CAPHER convention this month in Edmonton.

The awards, commemorating an internationally-known Canadian sculptor, author, physician and leader in the field of physical education, are presented annually to Canadians who have made significant contributions in the fields of health, recreation and physical education.

Dr. Vance Toner of the University of Moncton also received a McKenzie award this year.

CAPHER officials cited Dr. Martens' long career as a teacher, researcher and author in presenting the award.

Martens has taught school at the elementary, college and university level for 38 years.

He began his teaching career at Fort St. John in 1940 and joined the staff of the Provincial Normal School in Victoria in 1955. He has taught at UVic since its inception in 1963.

One of his current research projects is a study of the benefits of increased physical education for elementary school students. He is conducting a five-year project at Blanshard Elementary School where students are given increased time for physical activities while their academic progress is monitored.

CAPHER, which presents the annual awards of merit, has representation from all the professions concerned with health, physical education and recreation in Canada.

Vikings return to America

The UVic rugby Vikings returned this week from a three-week tour of Europe during which they played against teams in France, Italy and Yugoslavia.

The 31-member contingent raised $18,000 for the tour with the team receiving some financial assistance from the provincial government.

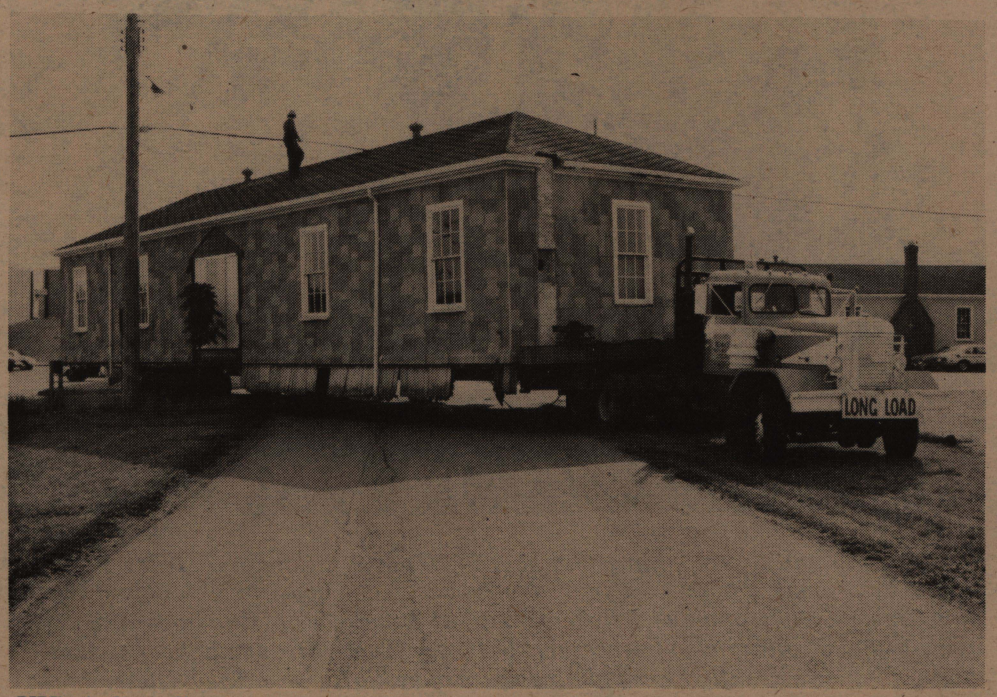
The Vikings played in Tournon, Grenoble, Venice, Zagreb and Dubrovnik after arriving in France Aug. 18.

In Yugoslavia the team had matches against the national youth side and the national team.

Making the trip were 25 UVic players, coach Ian McLean, Manager Marc Bell (Biology), tour manager Howard Gerwing (Special Collections), physiotherapist Allan Millie and club treasurer Don Lobb (Physics).

This is the fourth overseas tour for the Vikings. Other trips have included South America, Britain and Australia and Fiji.

Driscoll photo



UVic is literally a campus on the move. This building, 'F' Hut, once housed information services and later the Graduate Studies Society. Early in September it was removed to the area of the Saunders Building where it will be renovated and used as a day care facility when funds become available. 'G' Hut has also been removed and offices in that building have been relocated to 'J' Hut.

Distinguished educator dies

UVic lost an able and distinquished educator July 26 with the death of Arthur C. Abrahamson, of the School of Social Work.

Recognized as one of North America's outstanding social work educators, Abrahamson came to Victoria in 1976 with plans to retire following five years as the associate director of the Family Service Agency of Metropolitan Toronto. He postponed these plans in the face of the needs of UVic's new school for established and experienced faculty.

During his two years with UVic, Abrahamson developed admission procedures for the School of Social Work and was also responsible for planning a one-year post graduate degree which was approved by Senate last year.

During his career Abrahamson taught at the University of British Columbia School of Social Work and was a professor at the School of the University of Washington for 16 years. He had two appointments to the United Nations, wrote numerous articles and monographs, and authored two widely used and respected texts, Group Methods in Supervision and Staff Development and Essentials in Interviewing.

Math students earn top marks

Two young mathematicians from Victoria share first-place with the highest marks of 6,894 undergraduate students who wrote examinations at the end of the 1977-78 academic year at UVic.

Wendy Louise Seward, a second-year student in the Co-operative Education Program in Mathematics, and Harry Joe, a graduating student in an honors mathematics program, achieved perfect nine point grade averages, the equivalent of A plus marks in all subjects.

Nels Granewall, secretary of the UVic Senate committee on awards, this week made the announcement of the tie for first place when he released a list of 200 winners of $73,000 in awards and bursaries for undergraduates.

Seward took UVic's most prestigious award, the R.T. Wallace Scholarship of $900 which is given to returning senior students in an honors program.

The Co-operative Education Program in which she is enrolled is a year-round, work-study program in which top students alternate between academic studies on campus and work in industry in jobs related to their academic program.

Seward will enter third-year studies at UVic in September after completing her first four-month work session this summer as a programmer for ICBC in Vancouver.

While maintaining a high academic standing, she has found time to obtain her private pilot's licence and is a gliding instructor at a flying club in Nanaimo.

Joe, who has completed a Bachelor of Science honors degree program in mathematics, has accepted a National Research Council graduate scholarship of $6,360 to continue his studies at the post-graduate level at the University of British Columbia. He also received the Francis Gold Watch for the highest average in the final examinations.

Joe was runner-up to Arthur Charles Ralfs of Victoria for top graduating student at UVic. Ralfs received the Governor-General's medal at the May 27 Convocation after achieving the highest graduating point average. He also received a $6,360 NRC scholarship and will enter Cornell University in September for post-graduate studies.

Four UVic students entering the first year of medical school at the University of British Columbia have won awards to assist them in their studies.

Robert Carlson of Victoria, received the Victoria Medical Society Scholarship of $500; Howard Wightman of Victoria received the Victoria Medical Society Bursary of $500; Donald Crowe of Victoria was awarded the Lucy and Margaret Corbett Scholarship of $400 and Debra Lynn Harper of Sidney received the Dr. Douglas H. Taylor Lee Memorial Bursary of $350.

Angela Bartram of Victoria, a second-year student in the Faculty of Law received the Crease and Company Scholarship in Law of $710 while first-year law student Brenda June Brown of High River, Alta. was awarded the Wooton Scholarship in Law, worth $350

Centennial field gets overhaul

The playing field at UVic's Centennial Stadium has been closed until May of 1979 for reseeding and the installation of an automatic irrigation system.

"The decision to close the field was a difficult one," says David Titterton, manager of Physical Education, Athletics, and Recreational Facilities at UVic. The decision does not affect use of the new 400-metre rubberized asphalt track at the stadium.

Titterton explains that an inspection of the field this summer revealed that it needs a major overhaul. There are many bare patches and the field has been invaded by an undesirable form of weed grass (Poa annua).

"Earlier this year money was made available from the provincial government to instal an automatic, underground irrigation system for the field," says Titterton. "We decided this would be an excellent opportunity to undertake both projects."

The installation of an underground watering system will permit automatic night watering at the field. Watering the field in the past involved time-consuming manual placement of pipes on the field. Manual watering also closed the field for use by athletes for several days at a time.

"The automatic system will permit us to keep the field in use year-round and to water it when needed without expensive manual preparation," says Titterton.

The overhaul of the field will involve the spreading of an inch of new topsoil and seeding and fertilizing. "If we don't complete the work now, the condition of the field will only deteriorate further," says Titterton.

The field is open to all clubs and schools in the Greater Victoria area. In fact community and school use of the Centennial field accounts for 85 per cent of the total time the facility is open.

UVic uses the field 15 per cent of the time it is open, primarily as the main field for the Vikings soccer team. Soccer enthusiasts on campus are disappointed at the decision to close the field, especially since the team has an expanded schedule this year.

The Vikings are competing in a Canada West University Athletic Association (CWUAA) league this fall and have scheduled home games in Royal Athletic Park. The Vikings also compete in the Premier Division of the Vancouver Island Soccer League and will play home games in that league in Topaz Park.

Titterton said the field should be ready for use in May. While the Centennial field is out of commission, a new lighted, sand-based field for rugby will be ready for use this fall. In addition, work crews are now reclaiming a playing field from a parking lot adjacent to the McKinnon Centre. When finished, this sand-based field will be used for field hockey.

Bullets

McGill University Records is a new label which is bringing the talents of McGill staff and students to the record-buying public. Several discs are already on the market and scheduled for fall release is a recording by the student group, the McGill Percussion Ensemble and another by the Mount Royal Brass Quintet, which is a faculty group. Interest in music recording is running so high that the Dean of Faculty of Music at McGill is introducing a special credit course on the subject.

At the University of Toronto, undergraduate students in engineering have put on a display of more than 50 of their projects. For the first time the public has been invited to see such things as a wheel chair that climbs stairs, a low-powered cart for use by crippled children, a self-steering device for sailboats, and a pedal-driven, ski-equipped snow machine designed to allow athletes to continue heavy exercise during winter.

Carleton University this past year registered 8,763 full-time students and 6,419 part-timers, with part-time enrolment there now standing at 40% of the total. Only York University in Toronto has a higher part-time percentage.

Trent University in Peterborough is within $25,000 of becoming the first university in Ontario to achieve a fund-raising objective in the 1970s. Early in May the university had reached 99% of its objective of $3.5 million and the final target is expected to be met this month.

Prof. Ron Bercov of the department of mathematics at the University of Alberta in Edmonton and Prof. Roland Penner of the Faculty of Law, University of Manitoba, are the new president and vice-president respectively of the Canadian Association of University Teachers.

The Senate of Simon Fraser University has adopted university-wide regulations and a blueprint for continued development of co-operative education at the institution. As approved by Senate the programs would be four years long and would include eight on-campus study semesters and four off-campus work semesters. Initially, the programs are to be offered by the departments of computing science, maths and kinesiology.

Driscoll photo

Jumping the gun on the Shinerama blitz is Lieutenant-Governor Henry P. Bell-Irving, having his shoes shined in front of Government House by graduate student Pam Thierrien, left, and Sue Webster (H&SD-4). Hundreds of UVic students will be in malls and at downtown street corners Saturday (Sept. 16) to shine shoes and raise money for research into the crippling disease of cystic fibrosis. They'll assemble in front of the Student Union Building between 8 and 10 a.m. and move out in trucks donated by the local Militia. Students are aiming to raise more than $11,000 in the one-day blitz. All participating students are invited to an Alma Mater Society dance in the evening and there will be prizes. Students are encouraged to come to Shinerama in costumes. Lunches will be supplied.

calendar

Friday, September 15th

2:30 p.m. Faculty of Education meeting. MACL 103.

7:00 p.m. Cincenta Films. SUB Theatre. Woody Allen double Feature: "Sleeper" and "Love and Death". Admission charge.

10:30 p.m. Cincenta Films. SUB Theatre. "The Night of the Living Dead". Admission charge.

Saturday, September 16th

7:00 p.m. Cincenta Films. SUB Theatre. Woody Allen double Feature: "Sleeper" and "Love and Death". Admission charge.

10:30 p.m. Cincenta Films. SUB Theatre. "The Night of the Living Dead". Admission charge.

Sunday, September 17th

7:15 p.m. Cincenta Films. SUB Theatre. "King of Hearts". Admission charge.

Monday, September 18th

9:30 a.m. Board of Governors Meeting. UNIV Senate & Board Room.

3:30 p.m. Political Science Seminar. Speaker is Dr. Lenard Cohen, from Simon Fraser University, on the topic "Conflict-Regulation and Political Development in Socialist Yugoslavia: 1948-78". CORN 373.

7:15 p.m. Cincenta Films. SUB Theatre. "King of Hearts". Admission charge.

7:30 p.m. Faculty Association Meeting. Faculty Club.

Wednesday, September 20th

7:15 p.m. & 9:00 p.m. Cincenta Films. SUB Theatre. "Mother Kusters Goes to Heaven". Admission charge.

Thursday, September 21st

7:15 p.m. & 9:15 p.m. Cincenta Films. SUB Theatre. "Hedda". Admission charge.

8:00 p.m. Free Classics Lecture. Professor John P. Oleson, of the Classics Department, will present an illustrated lecture on his recent underwater archaeological survey: "Kings, Saints, Crusaders and Divers: Herod's Harbor and the Turbulent City of Caesarea Maritima". This is the first meeting of the Classical Association of Vancouver Island. CORN 112.

Friday, September 22nd

3:00 p.m. Economics Lecture. Professor James Tobin of Yale University will speak on "The Impasse in Macroeconomic Policy and a Possible Way Out." CORN 343

3:30 p.m. Faculty of Arts & Science meeting. ELLI 167.

7:00 p.m. & 9:15 p.m. Cincenta Films. SUB Theatre. "Inserts". Admission charge.